CONFIDENTIAL INFORMATION

Confidential information includes, without limitation, business plans, client information, employee information, project documents, product plans, designs, software code, credentials, financial information, pricing, proposals, processes, research, internal communications, operational data, technical material, and any information marked or reasonably understood to be confidential, proprietary, restricted, or sensitive.

OBLIGATIONS OF THE INTERN

- Use confidential information only for authorized internship work assigned by LUMENTIX SOLUTIONS PRIVATE LIMITED.
- Do not copy, publish, disclose, transmit, store externally, or share confidential information without written authorization.
- Protect credentials, documents, files, devices, systems, and communication channels from unauthorized access or misuse.
- Immediately report any suspected loss, leak, unauthorized access, or misuse of confidential information.

- Comply with instructions issued by the company regarding data handling, access control, and information security.

EXCLUSIONS

Confidentiality obligations do not apply to information that is publicly available without breach of this agreement, independently developed without use of company confidential information, or lawfully received from a third party without restriction. The burden of proving an exclusion rests with the person claiming it.

RETURN AND DESTRUCTION

Upon request or at the end of the internship, you must return, delete, or securely destroy all company information, documents, files, notes, credentials, copies, and materials in your possession or control. You must also complete any access removal, handover, or confirmation steps requested by the company.

SURVIVAL OF OBLIGATIONS

These confidentiality obligations continue during and after the internship. Nothing in this agreement grants ownership rights, license rights, or permission to use company intellectual property except as strictly required for authorized internship work.

> This NDA is issued and tracked under reference number LTX-20260416-0002. The authenticity of this document can be verified using the QR code or verification link included in the document.

By continuing with the internship or accessing company information, you acknowledge and agree to comply with the confidentiality obligations stated above.
